From the desk of CORADINE.....

Another month - another wedding! And this one was so very unusual in more ways than one! It involved 2 well-known local families, instead of the usual one - Carolynne Neuman, daughter of John & Virginia Neuman, was married to Dante Zettler, son of Toby & Nora Zettler at 1:45 P.M. at Zion United Methodist Church on Saturday, Aug. 25th. And the altar was so exceptionally beautiful because, along with the usual altar bouquets (yellow roses & white daisies) they had a spray of yellow & white daisies with ribbon streamers fastened to the candlebra & that gave it more depth! Then, instead of the ushers bringing the groom's mother down the aisle, the groom himself brought Nora & Toby - one on each arm - down to the altar rail & then the 3 of them turned to face the audience. Carolynne came down next, with John & Virginia & they also turned at the altar rail & faced us! That impressed me so very much, as the Moms had a part in the ceremony, instead of just the bride's dad. The Matron of honor (Anne Neuman Riggs) the bridesmaids - Sue Kulka & Patti Johnson came down the aisle next, followed by the flower girls, Maria & Maggie Ellis, (Jody Zettler Ellis' children). The best man - Omar Zettler & the groomsmen Erik Zettler, Mark Yako & Tom Miller were already waiting at the altar. One sad note, Kirt & Robby Zettler were unable to be a part of the ceremony as Robby had fallen that very morning & broken her knee. Kirt had to take her to the hospital & remained with her. Hope you are coming along O.K., Robby! The weather was so very cooperative for the outdoor reception that followed the wedding. The Pavilion was all dolled up with yellow & white balloons & yellow ribbons & bows. And the food - serloin tips, stuffed mushrooms, crabmeat & dip - as starters! So good! Now, I would like to close this wedding report with the words the newlyweds used for the closing paragraph on the wedding program:

"And to our parents, we dedicate this ceremony to you. Through your patience & love, you have given us the sense of family that we respect so deeply. We will strive to continue your example in our lives". Beautiful!

Leftovers - when I last wrote about the racoons, I didn't have all the details, so couldn't tell the story of the turkey nest in the Martin's back field & how the racoons got into it & destroyed all but 4 eggs - which Jakie salvaged & placed under the hens in his chicken coop, all but one egg hatched & after the baby turkeys were big enough, Jakie let them loose. And a few weeks after our Annual Home Tours - we received a note from perfect strangers in Columbus, Ohio telling us how much they enjoyed the tour, especially our house, & how much they appreciated our opening our home to complete strangers & treating them like family! It only cost this lady 25 cents to mail this card to us - but her words made us feel like a million dollars! And it costs nothing to say "Thank You" but again, it can make one feel like a million dollars! I am talking about you beautiful people out there, some of whom are strangers to me, who take the time to stop me & Thank me for writing my column in SeaScape! What a lift that gives to me!
THANK YOU!

On Sunday, August 12th, Bea Matso had a surprise birthday party for her Mom's 70th! It was held at Matso's Place & Sis McKillips (the birthday gal) was very much surprised! Connie - her granddaughter was there for the party - along with Phillip - her son & Sis' great grandson - her first! He was such a cute little bundle & we are all so happy that he survived his pre-mature birth!

Just one more "leftover"! Forgot to mention another unusual feature of the Neuman-Zettler wedding - the bridesmaids all wore ballet slippers & in place of sololists & organ music, Mike Neuman played tapes - or records (?) - Lee couldn't tell which but said it was beautiful soft music through out the ceremony.

Jessie Martin has written another new book, "The Beginnings and Tales of the Lake Erie Islands" & she gave me an autographed copy for my birthday. (So like her!) In browsing through the book, I

Shore Thing.....by Carole Krzynowek

Saddened by the death of Sue Griffing of Sandusky's Griffing Airlines...though "life is not ended, but merely changed".

Ted & Bonnie Blatt had a visit this summer, from a nephew who came from Africa, to Va., to Kelleys & then went to Pakistan where he works for the "Voice of America". He came with his wife & two daughters, one of whom has a scholarship to M.I.T. Another visitor was Ted's brother, an Air Force Captain who works in the Pentagon, with his son, Justin.

VFW presented a new flag to Gary Graham, manager of the 4Hcamp & replaced the flag in Down Town's Park this year.

Freeda & Ken Knapp visited K.I. for a week this summer. He will be retiring from the Army soon & is the nephew of the late Hank Knapp.

Cathy & Lee Verlinger sold their home on the mainland & are now residents of K.I. Perhaps they will be visiting their children in North Carolina when the winter is at it's height?

Joanne & Bob Golias are grandparents two times! Both sons presented them with the additions to their families. Awaiting pictures.

The "Walleye Mamas" came to the Casino last month aboard the Moby Dick & a good time was had by all! They're a group of ladies who enjoy fishin' from the Sandusky area.

Met one of the more recent year round Islanders, a character called, Chip, originally from Va. He has an interesting interpretation of our northern way of pronouncing some words & calls it, "Yankee Doodle" talk.

Recycling starts with YOU! Reuse grocery bags. Keep some in the trunk of the car. Purchase fabric, net or canvas bags with sturdy handles.

The Summer of 1990 League play ended with a K.I. victory against a good Middle Bass team. They brought their ferry boat with about 50 people to the game. This was easily one of K.I. team's best game of the season. The score was tied at 7 and 7 at the end of regulation play. The game was won in extra innings in gathering darkness with a home run hit by centerfielder, John Conway, a Lakewoodite working at the Casino for the summer. Final score - 10 to 8. The "came from behind win" enabled K.I. to finish 3rd in League standings with a 7 win, 5 loss record. The league champs were the Roundhouse team.

On August 21, the League Awards were made at the Beer Barrel on P.I.B., Roundhouse taking most of the honors as they were the superior team. Food was served & a good time was had by all. K.I. was well represented as players & fans alike were invited. A good turn-out from K.I. was made possible by Jim Palladino's house boat that made the trip with about 25 people aboard. Carmen & Angela Palladino also attended. Ken Haig made sure everyone got home safely.

Also have to make mention of John & Annie Ludu that were BM's at the home games. BM's being beverage minders, not BM's usually associated with these initials, they made sure that only those persons that were of age & eligible to participate of the suds.

Like to mention something not connected with fun & games. On Sunday, August 26th, there was a dedication of a Memorial erected honoring the four men that died in a plane crash trying to come to Kelleys Island to land EMT assistance. Looking around during the dedication, noticed a lot of tear filled eyes, right Gary Finger? Gary also made a donation to the committee on behalf of the K.I. EMT's.

So ends my literary endeavor for this season.

THANKS much, Dick!

The Squatters

Before the Kelley brothers purchased the island, it had another name, Cunningham's Island, & other people did occupy the land. When we see property change hands today, we probably don't consider that many have owned it before us. Of course, there were the Indians, the British, the French (It was even once a part of the Province of Quebec.), & the citizens of Connecticut before it became Ohio. In 1817, Judge Jabes Wright surveyed the island & set up markers to show which properties had been granted to which members of the Connecticut Land Company. Those proprietors were John McClellan, Jabes Adams, Uriah Tracy, Daniel Tilden, Richard Coit, William Eldridge, Joseph Perkins, & Oliver Kinsman. These were the men who sold to the Kelleys. However, before them there were others who have been referred to as "squatters".

Probably the best known of the squatters was a Frenchman by the name of Cunningham, who had come to the island in 1808, & it was for him the island was first named. During the four years that he occupied the premises, he traded with Indians, buying maple sugar & animal skins in exchange for blankets, etc., & maybe whiskey. He built a rough cabin. It's a guess that he was killed by the Indians or the British in 1812, although tales were told that he was wounded, escaped to the mainland, had descendants in Olmsted Township, & is buried between Rocky River & Elyria.

Two other Frenchmen, Bebo & Poschile, were also squatters. These two supposedly settled on the west point, & their clearing was taken over as a guard site for General Harrison's troops. It was said that these two left the island with Cunningham.

A man named Killam came with his family & another man or two around 1818. Although he built a cabin, he stayed only a couple years. During this time, he cut red cedar wood for the Walk-on-the-Water, the first steamboat on Lake Erie. When the boat was wrecked in 1820, Killam left the island. He had employed a couple men, Barnum & Grunmet, to help with the wood. Although he left, they stayed & became bitter enemies. This resulted in a shooting match in which Grunmet was killed. Barnum was jailed in Norwalk, Ohio. (then county seat of Cunningham's Island). He plead self-defense, & he was acquitted.

Several families followed: in 1827 Elisha Ellis & his wife; Sam Beardsley & his wife who died the same year; Henry Ellithorp who came in 1828 & brought his bride Elizabeth Neals across the ice on a sleigh along with six head of cattle in December, 1830; (She later gave birth to a boy, the first white child to be born on the island.) Ira B. Henderson & family; E.T. Smith, also known as "Tinker"; Nicholas Haskins with his wife & eight or nine children; Luther Ludd, his wife & four children; Frank Saunders; Ben Napier, with his family & five or six men in 1833. Napier had been ejected from Put-in-Bay. He was a large man of vile temper & took over property & livestock without any rights of ownership. Because of people like him, the squatters welcomed the rightful owners, the Kelley brothers, with open arms when they arrived on the scene. Many of these families remained to work for Irad & Datus, who soon established law, order & a community.

Although we don't have much information about these settlers, we feel that they too, have a place in our early history. In his own way each made a contribution in clearing overgrown land, building a home, maintaining a family, & sowing seeds of a civilization that we can enjoy today.

read the part on the Tiber River, & I do wish we had real good pictures to show that the shoreline in front of the Rumels house was even big enough to allow for a ship-building company & that the little stream that runs between their property & the Martin's even large enough to call a river!

We were all so shocked & sorry to hear of Sue Griffings death & that Harry had been hospitalized the same time as Sue & was scheduled for surgery. The latest news is that he was to come home on Sept. 10th. Good! Elmer Craft suffered a stroke after he had the surgery on the other side of his neck. He is receiving therapy now, but is restless to be home! A good sign. Charlie Brown continues to improve & is happy to be home. Saw him in his car with Ann, one day at the Post Office. He looked thin but is in good spirits! Judy Weintraub had to take Lenny home last week, he was getting too difficult to take care of here.

We have a new group here on the Island called "The Island Singers" & they have sung twice for us at Zion Church & Lee tells me they are very, very good! So - Orchids to Jennifer Koba who masterminded the start of the group - who include the following: Barb, Bob & Rob Behlan, Sandy Borkerman, Carolyn DeBoard, Vicky Finnegan, Carole Frindt, Lois Giles, Annalee, Guy Landis, Sandy Spayd, Vicky Staas, Tim Koba, with Phyllis Pahlor as accompanist & Jennifer Koba as director.

Will sign off now with a quotation from Thoreau - "Every house needs 3 chairs, one for solitude, two for friendship & three for company".

Till next time,

Remember sportsmen (& your dogs) that Lyme disease is still on the increase. In Connecticut, where the disease first surfaced fourteen years ago, 744 cases were reported in 1989.

Cases of Lyme disease have now been reported in 43 states. As you venture out this fall, keep a close eye on both your dog & yourself. Deer ticks will be active until the first heavy frosts.

The best way to avoid Lyme disease is to stay free of ticks. Inspect yourself & your dog thoroughly after every trip into the field. Hunters should tuck their pants into high socks & wear light-colored clothes which will enable them to spot deer ticks at once. Tightly woven fabrics also aid in repelling ticks.

Permethrin, applied to clothing discourages deer ticks. It permeates the cloth, killing most ticks which crawl over it. Used with a deet-containing product, it is considered to be one of the best repellents available. Before buying any tick repellent, be sure to read the label & follow the directions carefully.

Harvest onions before ground freezes.

Fishin' .....by Grampa Walleye

Well now, it seems with the temperature of the water starting to drop, the fish are starting to come back to the island, however, reports on the Perch fishin' is not too promising as of late. Perch are being caught in 30-40 feet of water both on the northwest end of the island & east of the airport, but they are running a lot smaller in size than they were a couple of months ago. Average is one keeper for every five to six fish caught, but they are worth the effort.

Walleyes are starting to come into the shallows at evening --- Ted Terry & some of his tenants at Sunrise Point caught fish on Friday & Saturday evening (10/5 -10/6). Fish were between 5 to 7 pounds, so they are a nice size. They are just starting to show up so as October "gets on" Walleye fishin' from shore should get better. Everyone has their favorite lure, I happen to like a Rapala, CD-7 (countdown) which is a slow sinking Balsa wood lure - use Silver Black finish as the Walleye's favorite food at this time of the year is the Shad & you want to simulate this bait fish. Get your lanterns cleaned up & mantels changed - try this fishin' - I'm sure you will like it (if the weather cooperates).

Took some of my grand-kids to the Marina to fish (ages 6-9) they had a good time catching some Small Mouth Bass & Crappies on minnows/bobber lines. It was really good for me - no one fell in which is really surprising - if you do this, make sure the kids have their preservers on, as little kids get excited easily when they catch fish & accidents happen.

Did you notice how clear the water is around the docks on the island? The Zebra Mussels are really doing "their thing". Divers are saying "clear" goes down 15 - 20 feet & looking at old wrecks in Lake Erie is really fun now due to the clear water. Although I personally feel the Mussels are hurting the fishin' during July, Aug. & Sept., I honestly hope these little critters are not impacting the spawning grounds in Western Lake Erie, the economy of this whole section depends on the fishin'.

Hope each & everyone of you readers have a good autumn. Please drop me a line & let me know about your feelings on this & any fishin' you may do during the Fall/Winter months, Ohio, Florida or wherever, also any suggestions you may have. Thanks!
