BIOGRAPHY

Would you believe that when I first started school, my teacher, Miss Baker, said that I never said a word? I was too shy to even ask permission to go to the restroom. Now, my parents and others seem to think that I talk too much.

One of the reasons that I talk a lot is because I'm the lone Senior this year. It must be something of a family tradition, for eight years ago my brother Michael was the only graduate. I have two older sisters, Barb and Alice, and a younger sister Marie.

There are quite a few things that keep me busy on Kelleys. I'm interested in basketball, football, photography, writing, cars, and of course, girls!

For the past two summers, I was part of a rock group! Actually, I worked for the Ohio Historical Society on the excavation of the Glacial Grooves.

My future plans are uncertain right now, but I'll probably do some traveling next fall and then get a job.

I want to thank many of the people on the Island, and others who have helped me so far, especially my parents.

There is one problem being the sole Senior—who will I take to the Senior Prom?

SENIOR CLASS WILL

I WILL TO:

Mr. Boker; a few locks of my hair and new walking shoes.

Mrs. Seeholzer; my ability to win bets on football games.

Miss Grabarczyk; a poster of Judy Collins and all of her albums.

Miss Douthett; a few more kids to fill the desks in her room.

Debbie; a new brush, a full-length mirror and a hope chest.

Janet; my ability to speak up in class and all of my yearbook duties.

Gary; a ticket to the next Joe Walsh concert.

Jim; my football and my Packer's helmet.

Tim; my enormous collection of comic books.

Karen; a dozen roses and the chance to be in a Cover Girl ad.

Angel; my ability to stay out of trouble (?)

Pam; my ability to get B's in geometry.

Vinnie; my ability to get to school on time.

Mike; my height.

Paul; my old shoes, if they'll fit him.

Sherry; my American history workbook from the 7th grade with all the answers in it.

Tony; a box of Chef Boyardee Pizza mix.

Charlie; my '56 Chevy and all the headaches that go with it.

Chris; my comb and a bottle of English Leather.

Marie; my old stereo, my room, and my Snoopy poster.

Jane; my old bike that needs repairs.

Connie; a book called "Funny Names for Funny People".

Scott; my basketball shoes.

Candi; a dance at the 1983 Senior Prom.

Jim; my good sense of humor.

PROPHECY

I was sitting at home in Birmingham, England when my wife, Heather, brought me a registered letter. I said to her, "Why Heather, this is a letter from my old pal Joel Feyedelem back at Kelleys Island, Ohio. He wants to have a reunion!" "Is that where you went to school twenty years ago, Gary?"

"Yes, didn't I ever show you the yearbook of 1974 from Kelleys Island High School?"

"Oh, now I remember; when must you leave?"

"I should pack now and leave by tomorrow night, if I want to get there on time."

The next morning I took the first flight to America. I landed at Cleveland Hopkins Airport, and there to meet me was the head coach of the Green Bay Packers, Jim Seeholzer. It was good to see the guy I had so often played football with back on Kelleys Island.

As we were pulling into Sandusky Boatline dock, who do you think ran up to meet us, but Debbie Seeholzer, who is the head doctor at Sleepy Lagoon Child Care Center.

As we were walking to the ramp, we saw Janet Schandorsky, who is a professor at Coon Cap University.

Just as the ramp was going up, Olympic track star, Tim Kilko, leaped onto the boat!

Tim said to me, "Gary, what've you been doing with yourself?" I told him, "I'm the president of the British Broadcasting Corporation in England."

...We were in the cabin talking about all of Joel's accomplishments. Our conversation included his awards for pictures in sports magazines and his two and one-half year trip to the Moon and back, during which time he wrote his three novels. Back on Earth he had become a football player for the Minnesota Vikings where he broke O.J. Simpson's and Jim Brown's records. After these achievements he decided to go into something daring. He became an undercover agent for the F.B.I. When Jim last heard from him, he was on an assignment in Vienna, chasing ex-chorus girls.

As the boat was pulling into the dock, we saw a well-dressed, red-haired, distinguished man sitting behind a desk in the office. We walked off the boat toward the road. The man must have noticed us, for he immediately jumped up from his desk to come to meet us. It was Joel!

When we asked where we should pay for the tickets, Joel told us that we didn't have to worry about that. He informed us that he is now retired and owns Neuman's Boat Line. What a guy!

We went to have an enjoyable reunion at the Village Pump, with Joel insisting that he was to pick up the tab!

REPORT OF THE SCHOOL BOARD OF KELLEYS ISLAND 1853 - 1906 INCLUDING EXCERPTS FROM THE SANDUSKY WEEKLY REGISTER

Addison Kelley, George Kelley, Edward Ward, Patrick Martin, Jesse Woodford, and Sylvester Dwelle were the first directors or school board members.

On December 18th, 1853 there was a new stone school building erected. The appropriation to run the school was $430. They had an amount of $806 in the school treasury.

In 1867 the board supported a German school.

APPEARING IN THE SANDUSKY WEEKLY REGISTER NOVEMBER 17, 1869 WAS THE FOLLOWING:

"A great deal of excitement has been caused here for the past two years by the introduction of religious services into our schools. Nearly every religious opinion has an advocate and any form of religious worship that could be introduced into our schools would find an opposing element. Prayer in school has broken up more schools than any other cause. People are not so constituted to think alike, and if religious or political opinions are insisted upon in schools, it will produce trouble.

"Children whose parents are opposed to the teachers' religious opinions get prejudiced against the teacher, and make a disturbance at prayer time, first, and it will afterwards continue through the school. It ends up in their getting flogged, and the parents take it up as much to get rid of a praying teacher as anything in school, if it is not wound up, ceases to be anything but a bond of contention in the neighborhood.

"When our schools were first opened, one of the teachers was informed that it would not be agreeable to some who sent children to school for her to have religious exercises before or during school, but if she would have prayer after school hours, no particular objection would be raised. This she refused to do, and those who were opposed to it applied to the Superintendent. He declined to act upon the matter and the Board of Education was resorted to.

"The Board being composed of two-thirds church members, it looked rather dark to the anti-prayer side of the question. However, a meeting of the Board was held last Friday, and after a warm discussion on the subject, it was decided that a teacher might have prayer immediately after the forenoon session. Of course, this compromise is not perfectly satisfactory to either party, but it will work perhaps until another election of officers can be held. The question heretofore was never asked what a man's religious opinions were when running for our township offices, and when the present Board of Education was elected the question as to whether they belonged to church or not was not thought of by most of those voting."

In 1870 the board thought in the best interest of the school to discontinue all religious exercises, either prayer or reading from the Bible. It was suggested that they use the Cameron house, (across the road from the school), for a school house. They found that this would cost too much to fix.

In 1874, the superintendent received $100 per year for just being superintendent, while the teachers received $35 per month. The superintendent supervised the four schools used then.

On April 28th, 1877, it was decided at a village election to build a new school in the center of the island to house about 60 pupils. The bid of $1,080 was accepted and the building was to be completed by October 15th, 1877. This building is now called the Hideaway, located on the south side of the bridge on Division Street.

The board held a special meeting on the subject of tardiness and irregular attendance. It was decided that anyone who was absent or tardy four times a month without an excuse would be suspended from school or such action as the board decided proper.

In 1886, the board held a special meeting due to complaints of high school discipline. It was decided the board would visit the high school during school hours. In May of the same year the high school closed a month earlier than usual because the high school consisted of only 6 attending pupils.

At a meeting of December 23, 1886, there were charges brought against the principal by a parent because of partiality being shown regarding the various nationalities of the students. The principal denied the charges and the board upheld him.

On March 18, 1877, the board passed a ruling to suspend any pupil from school who threw parlor matches on the floor, or who left after the afternoon recess without permission. Also, in 1877, the board helped furnish a new jail because they later held school board meetings there.

At the meeting of January 5, 1889, the superintendent complained of so much tardiness that the board told him to set the clock back 10 minutes.

In 1890 the board decided to pay the teachers at the end of a month rather than at the end of a term as was previously done.

Miss Ida Smith, (Mrs. Ida Rheinheimer), was hired in 1893 to teach eight grades in one room at North Primary School, situated close to what is now the 4-H Club, at $35 per month. She taught five years. Also in 1893 the State Board of Health adopted the following order:

"No child shall be permitted to attend any public, private, or parochial school without presenting satisfactory evidence of being successfully vaccinated."

The school board resolved to enforce this order and each child had to be vaccinated at 25¢ each.

In 1898 they decided to teach music in the schools and hired a woman to teach music at 50¢ per lesson per school once a week. It was also decided that the names of the graduates of each year should be entered in the school board records.

In 1898 (November), the board decided to rent the lower floor of the Congregational Church for class rooms for extra pupils.

During these years women were hired to sweep and mop the schools.

In July, 1900, the board accepted $5,000 as part payment of the $10,000 bequeathed by James Estes for the Central School. It was put into the building fund. On September 6th, 1900, they accepted the other $5,000 and advertised for bids for building the school. It was found that they would need more than the $10,000 given by James Estes to build and equip a modern central school, so they held a special election in June, 1901, to decide on the bond issue, and also whether the levy should be made from year to year until the cost of erection is completed. The election was held, but the bond issue lost.

It was decided then to change plans from a six room building to a four room building, adding the other two rooms later. They accepted the bid of George Doerzback (brother-in-law of Mrs. Jennie Ward). It was also decided to sell the other school buildings now in use. In September it was decided they couldn't get all the pupils in four rooms and would have to finish the other two rooms. When the school was completed July 1902, the bill-contract, plus extras, amounted to $14,000. They paid Doerzback $11,000 and signed a note for the remaining $3,000. In June, 1902, they decided to bond the village under the Guerin Law.

In 1903, the board voted against renting the old high school to the Kelleys Island Basketball Team.

It is interesting to note that when they started to heat the new school, they bought the same amount of coal per year as in 1950 — 60 tons — but in 1903 the price of coal was $2.50 per ton. In 1950 it was almost $13 per ton. Mr. Henry Jordan was hired as first janitor at $350 per year.

In 1904, Arnold Scheele was hired to teach 1st, 2nd, and 3rd grades at $35 per month. In the same year, the board purchased a set of encyclopedias American, 16 volumes, for $90.

On the 26th day of October 1925, the State Superintendent of Public Instruction issued a certificate establishing a four year high school.
